Since 1189, English law has been a common law. It is important, for such an old system, to frequently get updated, by people and companies, for it to answer the requests and needs of our modern age.

The following startups digitalise the dusty book of laws. They make the legal system more accessible, enjoyable, and intelligible, not only for private individuals but also professionals.

Robin AI appoints Carina Negreanu as Vice President of Artificial Intelligence

Robin AI empowers businesses and legal teams to fly through their contracts with advanced Legal AI tools for fast review and powerful searches. Robin AI's legal AI tools leverage the power of 10 proprietary models, Anthropic's Claude models and the security provided by AWS cloud.

The company has recently appointed Carina Negreanu PhD as Vice President of Artificial Intelligence (AI) - joining from Microsoft, where she was Principal Research Manager.
